

NEWS UPDATE

12 July 2018

One of my earliest lists, Great Northern Rly (Ireland) has been retyped as a Word doc. and expanded to cover the whole of Northern Ireland. My "UK Various Rlys" list has been retitled "Great Britain Various Rlys", Northern Ireland information having been moved to the Northern Ireland list. I have also prepared a list for Republic of Ireland railways. The Sabah Sarawak Brunei list has been updated and retyped as a Word doc. I hope to update the Sri Lanka list later this year.

I have now gained access to the enormous Google on-line archive of USA Official Guides, over 200 issues from 1874 to at least 1910, and other North American railroad guides. These are providing a wealth of new information and will continue to do so for many years. Currently, I am going through many of the lists of renamed stations shown in the Official Guide from 1899 to 1908.

03 November 2017

I am continuing to retype the old "Amstrad" Australian and New Zealand lists as Word Docs. New South Wales, Western Australia and Tasmania have been completed, the former as a single list replacing the old North, South and West lists. David Whiteford of Perth, Western Australia, has provided a considerable amount of new information for the WA list. Work on the USA lists continues as and when I find new information, but I regret that lack of time has prevented progress on more of the France SNCF lists.

I have noticed that several other sites (eg. Yumpu) are reproducing many of my lists – some without my consent. Be aware that these may be out of date versions, so, please, always go to my site for the latest versions!

1 March 2017

I have now retyped the South Australia, North-Trans-Central Australia and Luxembourg Railways list as Word Docs. The latter has been updated with extra information from early Bradshaws Guides, correction of errors and recent station renamings. A new list, Baltimore Transit, has been prepared and most of the USA RR lists updated to include new information and early (often pre-Union) stations in cities.

If you wish to contact me, please put "Jims Station Lists" in the subject heading to reduce risk of your email being treated as junk mail!

27 October 2016

After a pause of about 3 years, I recommenced work on the Japan station lists earlier this year. Wikipedia and the Kitayama sites include all lines and stations currently open in the English language, but details of closed lines and stations can only be found on Japanese language sites. Research into these is very slow, frustrating at times and with only partial success due to the limitations of the Google translator. I have updated Hokkaido, Kyushu, Shikoku and Okinawa, but much more needs to be done on Honshu.

Following extra information on Fiji, I have split the Hawaii/Fiji/Pacific Islands list into two separate lists, Hawaii under USA RR's, Fiji under Australia NZ. The Belgium State Railways list now includes additional information from a 1929 working timetable and updating of the Quebec list has been completed. Following more information on Denmark, the two old "Amstrad" lists have been retyped as Word docs. The USA Railroad lists continue to be updated and I have completed an introductory note.

I aim to continue the France SNCF lists during the next 12 months. Sud-Est will be next, followed by Ouest and Sud-Ouest.

New feature: I have created a new folder "Maps & Timetables" containing various items in my collection. So far: a diagram I prepared for the complex alterations to the Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern Railways in Alberta in WW1, map and timetable for the paired track operation between Denver and Pueblo, and reproduction of Eric Stretch's map of the French secondary railways. Other items may be added from time to time.

Thanks to all who have contacted me with corrections, additional information and good wishes. Further comments and new information always welcome!

Hint: If you are regular visitor to my site, remember to refresh any lists you have previously viewed and you may need to delete cookies & temporary internet files to access the latest versions.

Best wishes to fellow railway/railroad/tramway station enthusiasts!

Jim Fergusson